SENIOR CLASS HISTORY

Well, here's the night I've been waiting for. But strangely enough I don't want to leave. Our class has been through so much together.

Under the guidance of our eighth grade homeroom teachers, Miss Motley, Mrs. Newton and Mrs. Hockaday, we became a part of high school and once we had obtained our lockers, we felt that we were really on our way. The things we learned in Mr. Shearer's math class!

When we entered the auditorium during the first part of our freshman year, we were minus two of our friends, Marie Toney and Raymond de Kozan who had gone to other schools.

Initiation was frightening at first, but such fun! Remember how they bound up Anne Ames's mouth for talking? And Ann Adicks was proposed to by William Heath! We really led Mrs. Christian and Miss Sheetz a merry chase. Those crazy square dances Miss Sheetz taught us at our class party! Ronnie Sutton was our president.

We breezed merrily into our sophomore year under the guidance of Mrs. Fraser and Mr. Green and with Gerald Gorden as president. We welcomed Doris King into the crowd that year. Our class treasure was well under way, but remembering that the Junior-Senior dance was over a year away, we blew it on one last fling, our sophomore party.

With $2.50 we started the junior year. Our "Yankee", Loyal Moore entered with us. Buddy Weis was our president and Mrs. Hockaday and Mr. Green, Sponsors. Things really began to happen. When several of us were made Beta Club members, we thought we had really arrived; but that was only the beginning! At Christmas, we received our class rings. Early in 1953, we started work on our Junior-Senior Prom. The theme was April Showers. We worked until late Friday night and Saturday afternoon throwing "raindrops" over the rafters in the gym. There was a huge umbrella in the center of the ceiling that was supposed to shower confetti on the seniors. Saturday night at the dance, all the juniors waited, their eyes glued to the ceiling, but nothing happened. A little disappointment here and there was not enough to dampen our enthusiasm though. We considered that dance the best ever, anyway.

Some of us began work on Varina's first printed newspaper which took all awards at the SIPA convention in Lexington. We knew that it would be our task to keep up its standards.

Finally, we became seniors. This year really has been the fullest and most exciting of all. Ronnie is again our president. Our new sponsors, Miss Bok and Miss Boisseau both have brought new ideas. We've changed several things this year. We've abolished initiation and chosen standardized commencement invitations. Our class members take an active part in school life. Geraldine and Alice head the newspaper and annual. Woody is co-captain of the football team and William is Co-captain of the basketball team. William has also been suburban league high scorer for two years. Annie and Charlotte captain the girls' basketball team. Betty is the first girl SCA president in eight years. Betty Baltimore Wright, who surprised us all by getting married last Christmas Eve, is head cheerleader. Diamond rings seem to be quite the style. Ann Saunders, Ellen Walls, Joyce Powell, Shirley Bugg, and Parsy Childress are all proudly wearing theirs.

"Life With Father", our senior play, was a big success, Jean finally learned how to sit on Sherwin's lap and Buddy stormed around while Ruby calmed him in her not very logical, but quite charming manner. In the end, we discovered that those hours and hours of practice had really been worth while. We never could have done it without Miss Bok though.

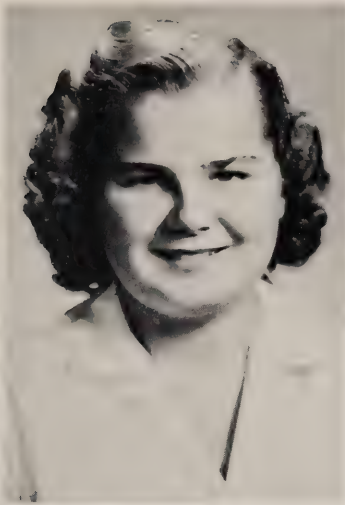

Well, these last few weeks will never be forgotten. There have been conventions and meetings and parties. Then final exams, class day and baccalaureate all leading up to tonight. So many of us seem to be crying. I guess it's happiness as well as that feeling that we hate to leave Varina. They say you get out of something what you put into it. We've done our best and worked hard. We can be proud to say we're Varinians.

THE VARINA BETA CLUB 16th BIRTHDAY PARTY

SENIOR CLASS PROPHECY

Geraldine Aigner, editor of the New York Times, recently decided to run a feature story on "The Present Activities of the Class of 1954 of Varina High School." Her reporters, Jean Livesay and Carol Timberlake, were quickly dispatched on a U.S. tour to seek out information. The first stop was the most logical, that of the old habitat, Varina High School.

There they were bowled over as they entered the building by the three musketeers, Charlotte Blon, Loyal Moore and Woody Hicks, who now handle the athletic department. All the teams have a 0-0 record.

Among the other old friends found here was Mary Ellen Teas, office secretary to the new principal, John Harding, who was awarded the job on the basis of past experience in the office.

Elsewhere in Varina, Betty and Ellen Walls live in their own duplex, some years after their double wedding. They are now active members of the PTA.

As they walked across the road for a bit of refreshment, they found that the old Varina Inn is now the Varina Filling Station, run by the Co-owners, mechanics, and jacks-of-all-trades, Kenneth Keeton and Lewis Williams.

Traveling on their way up Route 5, they stopped in Richmond, where Annie Mae Crosby and Bobby Tredway, Pat Tillman and Aubrey Lee were raising opposing teams for AAA baseball, which is now in full swing.

As they stepped on the bus, they were surprised to hear a familiar voice greeting them. It was Billy Walton, a well-remembered classmate, now a top-flight Greyhound bus driver.

As the bus sped through the beautiful Blue-Ridge mountains of Virginia, they passed a luxurious resort, "Hettie's Hilltop Haven." Astride a sleek horse sat Hettie Slone, one-time student of Varina High.

Having stopped for a short rest in Whattown, Pennsylvania, the girls came across the sign, "Justice of the Peace, Raymond Shepherd." Yes, it was "Bert" following in his father's footsteps. They were told upon entering that they were just in time to act as witnesses to the wedding of another friend, Betty Strickler, to a prominent businessman.

When they arrived in New York they were given a welcome by congressman and millionaire cattleman, Ronnie Sutton, who took them for a tour to observe the processing of meat. From behind a rib of beef popped Buddy Weis, owner and manager of the Weis Meat-Packer's, operating on an international scale.

That night they attended the drama, "Robinson Crusoe", playing at the Palace Theatre and starring that famous actor, Carlton A. Southward. As Crusoe came out on the stage amid thundering applause they saw that he was none other than Charles Southward, one of their talented classmates. After the performance he took a curtain call with his director and coach, Paul Shereda, who had always excelled in speech and dramatics class.

Found in the audience were Joyce Dickerson and Betty Baltimore, rooming together and still collaborating. Joyce, designer of Joyce Originals, plans the complete wardrobe of Betty, a famous model.

After the play, being on an expense account, they rounded the night clubs and were listening to some hot notes from a beautiful canary when they discovered that she was Doris King, now billed as Marie La King, chanteuse. Her accompanist, they found, was Ann Saunders.

Walking along Fifth Avenue the next day, they spied a familiar face. "It's Alice Cabe", cried Jean. It was indeed Alice, now a famous commercial artist, complete with penthouse studio.

That afternoon they attended a boat race on the Hudson River. The winner flashed over the finish line in a trim red boat. On the side was emblazoned the sign, "Jones Marine Boat Co." It was Robert Jones, collecting a new trophy to add to the 456 now in his trophy case.

As they relaxed in their hotel suite that night, reading the paper, the headlines declared that a new germ had been discovered by that eminent bacteriologist, Annie Gertrude Banton. This was no shock, for Annie was always discovering surprising things in chemistry class.

The next day, they prepared to leave New York. As they entered Grand Central Station, they were almost run down by a handsome young man who was galloping around the platform at top speed. As he tripped past, they recognized Sherwin Beck, one-time track star of V. H. S., practicing his daily 20 miles while waiting for a train to Seattle. He informed them that he was to compete in the Olympics, being held in the state of Washington.

Boarding the Westbound train, they encountered Ruby Norman, just returning from a trip to Yucca Flats, Nevada, where she had visited three old friends Jeanette Owen, Bettye Lee Gatlin, and Joyce Powell, at their posts as private secretaries to top executives of the Atomic Energy Commission. Ruby, a teacher at Pan-American Business College, was in quite a hurry to get back to her classes in Richmond. But, learning of their quest for news, she informed the girls that three classmates were nurses at the Mayo Clinic. Anne Adickes, Rose Norman and Betty McCue are now in line for promotion as supervisors.

They took their seats, but had hardly settled back when they were brought to attention by the sound of a porter calling their names. Hurriedly they opened the telegram he handed them. It was from Texas, an invitation to dinner, signed "Alton Stapp, Governor of Texas." On arriving at the governor's mansion, they discovered another dinner guest, the Senator from Virginia, Gerald Gordon, who immediately began to argue on the question of "Pork versus Beef", or "When are we going to eat dinner?"

After a delightful evening, they hopped a plane to Los Angeles just in the nick of time. Up front sat Patsy Childress, her husband, and seven children who were all en route for a week-end at "grandma's" on a ranch in Arizona. Patsy, living in Dallas with her army husband, raises the Slaughter kids with a firm and steady hand.

It was quite easy to locate former classmate William Heath in Los Angeles. His name is known to every movie fan. "Heath's Quick-Pix" studio covers fifty acres in the heart of the city. As a special treat to his friends, "Bill" allowed them to sit in on the showing of his new picture, "The perils of Linda," starring his latest discovery, Linda Leeds Cummins.

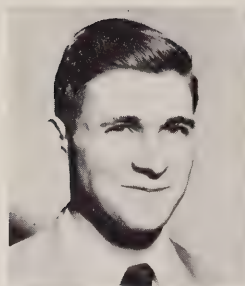

A little difficulty was encountered by the girls in locating one of their friends, Shirley Horner, formerly Shirley Bugg. She and Edward, now live on the shore of Lake Michigan. They've named their first, "Jack".

Traveling back to Richmond with only a few of their classmates left to visit, they stopped at Vassar College, and were greeted warmly by the distinguished Miss Ames, head of the English Dept. and dearly beloved by all the girls.

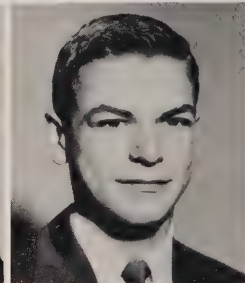

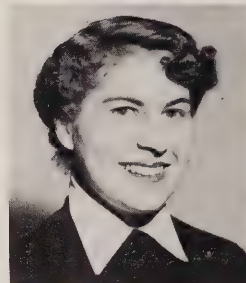

Tired but happy at having seen all their old classmates and pleased that everyone was so successful, they boarded their train, resting secure in the knowledge that Editor Aigner would be pleased with the report.

County Manager Beck Explains Henrico's Form of Government

By Geraldine Aigner

"Our aim is to give as much service to the country as possible and at the same time to be as efficient and courteous as possible," explained E. A. Beck, Henrico County Manager, recently in his office at the county building.

While in New York, Miss Carter is his office at the county building. In 1952, Virginia had 17 counties in the which had the manager form of government. Henrico has one of the model counties in the state. The principal reason for the change in government was the need for better management of the county's affairs.

"The principal reason for the change in government was the need for better management of the county's affairs," explained Mr. Beck. "The principal reason for the change in government was the need for better management of the county's affairs."

Mr. Beck's home is in Henrico. He received a degree in Science from the University of Virginia. He has previously managed the South Boston and Portland, Maine, public utilities.

"Although I have managed many municipalities, I have never before managed a county," Mr. Beck explained. "I have never before managed a county."

One of Mr. Beck's first projects was to improve the services to the rural and urban areas of the county. He has been successful in many of his projects.

Two Pro

According to the there are two immediate problems in Henrico other than the water and sewerage problem. The first is the need for better management of the county's affairs.

REMEMBER:

When Mr. Baker was principal?

The clothes ten years ago? (Dig those crazy skirts.)

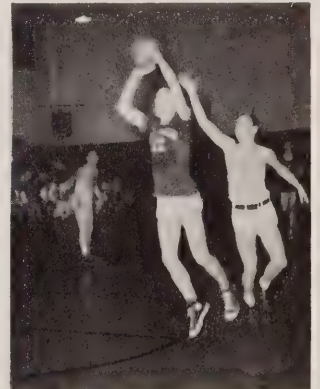

When the faculty played basketball and Miss Owens was the star?

When the seniors were in the first grade.

When Woody and John danced at initiation?

The year we won the tournament?

Your pay starts from the first day at the telephone company — even while you're learning your new job!

That's one reason so many young girls choose a telephone job when they finish school. They don't need experience to get this good job — and they're paid while they learn a skill that'll always be useful.

Find out more about the variety of telephone jobs from your high school counselor — or come in and see us when you finish school.
